CONTENTS

Preface vii

Introduction: The Literary History of Distraction 1
The Unifocal and the Multifocal / The Rise of the Distracted Character / Attention, Distraction, and Enlightenment Philosophy of Mind / A Swiftly Tilting Madness / Categorizing Distraction

1 Mind Wandering: Forms of Distraction in the Eighteenth-Century Essay 29
Distraction and the Eighteenth-Century Essay / The Rhetoric of Attention: Appealing to Pathos and Brevitas / The Essay as a Tool of Focus / Training Attention to Attention / Strengthening Focus: Repetition and Dramatic Irony / Economies of Attention / The History of Attention Span

2 Lapses of Concentration: Distracted Vigilance and the Female Mind 61

3 Scattered Attention: Distraction and the Rhythm of Cognitive Overload 96
4 Fixated Attention: The Gothic Pathology of Single-Minded Focus 132
   Microscope and Mind / Scientific Metaphors and the Madness of Attention / The Politics and Poetics of Fixation / Involuntary Attention: A Multifocal Selective Blindness / Sympathy and the Benefits of Distraction / Rewriting Suspense: Interruption and the Gothic Sublime / Fixation and the Science of Obsession

5 Divided Attention: Characterization and Cognitive Richness in Jane Austen 174
   The Power of Multitasking in Pride and Prejudice / The Singular Importance of Inattentive
   Characters / Mr. Hurst: The Limited Capacity of the Undivided Mind / Mrs. Jenkinson:
   Narrow Bandwidth and the Creation of Depth / Lydia and Miss Bingley: Caricaturing
   Cognitive Vacancy / The Dangers of Too Much Attention / Distraction as Liveliness of Mind / Mary Bennet: Hyperfocus and Cognitive Immobility / Lady Catherine de Bourgh: The Problem of Excess Vigilance / Elizabeth Bennet: The Benefits of Diversion /
   Characterizing Reading: Maps of Distraction and Interest

Coda: History of Mind and Literary Neuroscience 212
   Interdisciplinarity: From Theory to Practice / Literary Attention: An fMRI Study of Reading Jane Austen / The Value of Literary History

Notes 231
Bibliography 259
Index 281